All Things Avian Field Day

Learn about the birds flying through your farm and how they might be a benefit to your operation. Hear from and connect with innovative farmers, avian researchers, and other experts about practices that attract beneficial birds for pest control and manage pest birds. In addition, participate in a demonstration hedgerow planting and learn how this habitat can benefit your farm. You will gain valuable experience in planning for practices aimed at attracting beneficial birds and other natural enemies. Registration is $20 and includes lunch and copies of Wild Farm Alliance's Supporting Beneficial Birds and Managing Pest Birds and Napa Valley Grapegrowers' Birds in the Vineyard Best Practices.

About Tres Sabores Vineyard

With over 50 Western Bluebird nest boxes, raptor nesting boxes and plenty of diverse habitat on her Napa Valley farm, vintner Julie Johnson believes in replacing the niches in nature that are missing in agriculture. Tres Sabores sits on an alluvial fan, with over half the property still covered in mixed Oak woodlands. Her vineyards, heritage olives and grove of pomegranates have been CCOF certified since 1991 and more recently her land was certified by Napa Green.

This field day is brought to you by generous support from Newman's Own Foundation, Strong Foundation for Environmental Values, and Clarence E. Heller Charitable Foundation and the following project partners:
